One Free Act Decided

Another major change in the show for 1939 will be that only one free act will be offered "I believe we should have only one free act, a good one, and spend the money provided for other acts for more music and other amusements," Dr. B. R. Bales said. The one free act will be staged at the courthouse.

Mr. Krinn, director of music and free acts for the celebration, believed this change would bring complaints. He explained that the purpose of four free acts in previous years was to take the crowds to the various boundaries of the show district so they would pass the various rides and concessions. He announced that he had contracted with the Gooding Co., Columbus, to furnish rides for the 1939 show.

Some directors believed additional music in those districts would attract sufficient crowds.

Dan McClain, director in charge of parades, said that some changes are under consideration in that department to stimulate interest. He believed a contest for school bands would prove interesting and provide additional entertainment.
